Murray teachers' unit girds for '75-'76 pact

The Murray Elementary School District teachers are starting to get serious.

Rather than the somewhat haphazard method of presenting proposals that the Certificated Employes' Council (CEC) used in the past, CEC Chairman Regina Paulus and a team of seven other teachers have compiled a 34 page proposal that they gave to the board of trustees last week.

And those 34 pages comprise only four of the 10 articles in the proposal overall packet and contain no salary requests.

Pausus, Jack Taylor, Lydia Saavedra, Frank Stager, Lavonne King, Rich Piper, Miriam Pasqual and Don Leege put together the package from other districts, their own ideas and a survey of district teachers.

Although Paulus is hoping for a quick resolution of the teacher contracts for the 1975-76 school year, she is not convinced that the package will be approved by the hoped for end of April goal.

Last year, negotiations dragged on until just two days before school was to open and the threat of the Valley's first ever teacher strike was quite real.

Although, as usual, salary demands will probably be the big stumbling block, the formalization of old district policies, some changes and the addition of many new policies are also expected to cause some lengthy discussion.

The first article in the proposal basically formalizes the relationship of the board to the CEC and puts into writing some simple requests of the teachers.

For example, Policy 1.310 states that "No reprisal for any member or leader shall take place because of Association activity." Although no specific acts of reprisal have ever taken place, some teachers have felt pressure, they claim, because of involvement in teacher issues.

Also, an intercom system at one of the schools in the district was malfunctioning, Paulus said, so that the office could listen in to the classroom during or after school without the teacher knowing. Therefore, an article was placed in the proposal to make that officially a no - no.

Article II, however, promises to be more controversial. Perhaps the most incandescent request is section 2.4, "Class Size", which sets maximum class sizes throughout the district.

Presently, the district and state work on an average class size basis and there is no maximum for each classroom set. The teachers are asking that kindergarten through third grade classes should have no more than 25 students while the upper grades should have no more than 28.

Now, the district average novers around 28 students per class but some classes are much higher and some much lower. Obviously, the financially troubled district would have to hire many more teachers to lower maximum class size to 25; the average class size would probably drop to 22 or 23 if that was put in effect.

That section also includes some recommended figures, according to Taylor, for the number of students per counselor, per psychologist and per nurse that the CEC would like to see implemented.

However, if Tuesday's revenue limit increase election fails(and a subsequent one in May that is set to go if the March proposal fails), nurses, counselors and teachers are scheduled to be cut.

Paulus indicated that all cost items— that is, issues in the proposal that will cost money to implement— will not be negotiated until after the results of the election(s) are known.

Other items in Article II that will raise some hackles are requests for a seven hour day and the elimination of the traditional teacher supervision of yards during recess and lunch.

Section 2.110 says, in part, "the work day at each school shall not be greater than seven consecutive hours including the duty-free lunch period and any preparation periods."

In conjunction with section 2.150, which prohibits the district from requiring teachers to attend meetings outside of that seven hour period, this means that faculty meetings would have to fall within the seven hour day(which includes arrival 30 minutes before school is to start).

Section 2.140 asks that each teacher be given a 45 minute prep period— prep periods are common in high school but, according to Paulus, the majority of teachers in the district don't have prep periods now.

Section 2.300 deals with the elimination of teacher yard duties, collection of money, inventory and so on and would require additional yard supervisors or similar employes to handle the load.

The addition of the prep period to each teacher's schedule would require either more teachers and bunching two or three classes together for one period's worth of instruction in music or drama, for example.

Section 2.740 adds a whole new element to the school district — an Educational Development Council(EDC), the purpose of which would be to "strengthen the educational program".

The EDC would consist of two representatives appointed by the Superintendent, three representatives from the teacher organization representing the majority of the teachers and one parent representative.

Currently, there are two teacher organizations in the district, one with seven seats on the CEC and the other with two, but under these terms the smaller group would be denied any representation on the EDC.

Also, the teachers are asking that the district fund the EDC with $1000 a year so that professional consultants could be hired if necessary.

Articles III and IV deal with assignments, transfers and sabbaticals, with assignments and transfers incoroporating most of the new material.

The teachers are asking that a list of vacancies be posted for the new school year in the previous school year and that all teachers be allowed to apply for the openings.

Also, the teachers are requesting that a definite procedure be set up for involuntary transfers.

Although the first four articles seem to have plenty of controversial material, two major items at least will be brought up in the final six. Those are salaries and a greivance procedure.

The final part of the CEC proposal will be presented at the next MESD board meeting.

Near disaster

No one was injured when this 1965 Dodge Van overturned on Foothill Road near Muirwood Drive at 1:15 p.m. yesterday. The van apparently went on to the gravel shoulder of the road at the apex of a sharp bend, and flipped when it came back on the pavement. Craig Elliott, the driver, was taking four Dublin High School friends for a drive when the accident occurred. Lt. Gary Jackson and firemen Wayne Riffie from Pleasanton's Engine No. 2 were dispatched to wash down the spilled gas. Elliott drove the van away after it was set aright.

City officials seeking more aid in Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C. — This morning the Pleasanton City Council begins a jam-packed schedule of meetings and conferences in the nation's capital in an effort to bring a greater understanding of this community's problems to federal officials.

All members of the city council, except Mayor Floyd Mori, City Manager Bill Edgar, Assistant City Manager Al Campbell and City Attorney Ken Scheidig flew to the east coast yesterday to attend the four-day National League of Cities Conference in Washington.

In addition to the league conference, the Pleasanton contingent has scheduled a series of meetings with federal officials to discuss specific problems.

Number one on the city's priority list is the sewer situation. Edgar said two meetings had been scheduled with Mark Pissano, director of the Water Planning Division of the Environmental Protection Agency and other EPA officials.

In addition, city officials have scheduled meetings with the United State Park Service to discuss the National Urban Ridgelands Park proposal, with General Benjamin Davis, assistant Secretary of the Department of Transportation to discuss federal highway funds, with Jack Powell of the Postmaster General's office to discuss curbside mailboxes, and with Colonel Al Hight of the U.S. Corps of Engineers to discuss the corps' proposed water study.

The Pleasanton contingent will also meet with California legislators, in particular, Senators John Tunney and Alan Cranston and Congressman Pete Stark.

The National League of Cities Conference will deal with such issues as: collective bargaining and public service employment; revenue sharing; the Clean Air Act and land use legislation; transportation; and Land and Conservation Act amendments.

Pleasanton officials will return late Wednesday evening.

Dog race ruling is sought

A racing federation, composed of delegates from the nine county fairs that hold horse racing meets, will have to come up with a recommendation on greyhound racing before the Alameda County Fair board decides to take a stand.

And the recommendation that the federation will make is almost certainly to be in opposition to greyhound racing and betting in this state.

Lee Hall, Fairgrounds manager, told The Times earlier this week the Fair board would await action by the Western Fairs Association's racing committee.

At a gathering Wednesday at Golden Gate Fields, the latter group decided not to take any stand pending the racing federation meeting. The federation's next meeting is scheduled for Santa Anita in Arcadia.

Hall said there is no chance that a stand by the federation would be decided upon before the next Fair board meeting, set for Tuesday, March 11.

The bill seeking greyhound racing and pari-mutuel betting in the state's five most populous counties (AB455, Assemblyman Leon Ralph) is now in committee.

The federation is expected to take a no greyhound racing stand with that filtering back to the Western Fairs Association's racing committee and thence to the County Fair Association board.

Attending Wednesday's meeting were Hall, board racing committee chairman George McDermott, Director Al Bonne and Everett Nevin, racing director.

Channel 44 to carry news from Livermore district

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Unified School District is on the air!

Tune in Channel 44 (Channel 12) on your cable TV between 7 and 10 a.m., any weekday this week, and find out what sports events are coming up; what today's lunch menu will be; when the next Early Childhood Education committee meeting will be.

In the future, shows will be a bit more glamorous if the pilot attempt proves workable. Taped "peeks" into the classroom will give parents a chance to see the kiddies on TV while at the same time getting a glimpse of what goes on in school all day.

It isn't costing the district a thing, except a portion of the salary of Tom Heineman, the district's media specialist, who helps to arrange programs partly on his own time and party on district time, along with Allen Schell, East Avenue School TV arts teacher.

Eighth graders at East Avenue provide a lot of help running the broadcast equipment, which is in a tiny room off the school's music room.

The district has had locally - produced TV programs shown in most schools for the past year, along with tapes of KQED educational TV shows rebroadcast to suit teachers' needs.

But Monday will be the first day the Livermore station will come into people's homes.

Heineman ruefully says there won't be any audio portion to this week's "show" because the needed equipment hasn't arrived yet at the offices of Televue, the Valley's local cable TV company, who are

Assembly candidates defend positions

The campaign for the 15th Assembly District seat left vacant by the death of Carlos Bee has been a relatively low-spending but highly charged affair, particularly in the last three days.

Many political observers were surprised by the victories of two relative political unknowns in the February primary. Floyd Mori captured the Democratic run-off spot after serving nearly three years on the Pleasanton City Council, the last year as mayor.

His Republican opponent, Guy Puccio's first foray into elective politics came last June and November when he ran against Bee, who had served in the Assembly for more than two decades.

Both Mori and Puccio attributed their victories to the repudiation of "old politics", since both had opposed veteran politicians in the February primary.

As events of the last few days have shown, however, there is still a touch of the "old politics" in the "new politics."

A group of dissident Democrats who were unsatisfied with Mori as a Democratic candidate, approached Puccio's campaign and offered to help. Three separate groups were being formed, Democrats for Puccio, Democrats Against Mori and Valley Voters for Puccio.

What came out of Puccio's headquarters, however, was a negative letter authored by a new group, Democrats for Good Government, which charged Mori with a series of offenses. At least two of the 22 names on that letter, the Rev. William Nebo and Tim Baird, disavowed it, not so much for its contents as for the innuendo and the tone of the letter.

A second mailer, which repeats the entire contents of the first letter, was distributed Friday. Puccio admits the portions of the letter were "not factual" and told this reporter he tried to stop the second letter from going out but could not do so. "It bothers me," Puccio said. "I feel there are excesses in it." He also regretted the inclusion of some people's names "which were used inadvertently."

Mori's campaign headquarters was understandably upset by what they considered to be the "disception, half-truths and innuendos contained in the letter."

Ken Mano, treasurer for the Mori campaign, refuted some of the allegations contained in that letter Friday.

Referring to the charge that Mori was an "active and vocal Democrat for Nixon" in 1972, Mano said, Mori "supported (Edmund) Muskie in 1972, after his defeat Floyd's name was

'Demo Club' renounces Mori

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Valley Democratic Club unanimously passed a resolution of non-support for Democratic Assembly candidate Floyd Mori Thursday night.

Fifteen of the club's approximately 25 members were in attendance.

The club's resolution reads, "We are not supporting Mori because he was a Democrat for Nixon, because of his past voting record and because of his differences in philosophy with the Livermore Valley Democratic Club."

The club also authorized President Ken Croswell to communicate their dissatisfaction with Mori to California Speaker of the Assembly Leo McCarthy and the Democratic Central Committee.

Croswell said, for the purpose of unity, he had proposed to the LVDC Executive Board that "no endorsement be made for this election. I feel it would be best for this organization and in this election, not to take any stand," he added.

Club members, however, disagreed.

The club, by its own by-laws, was prohibited from making any kind of positive endorsement at Thursday's meeting because the fact that such an endorsement would be made would have had to have been published prior to the meeting.

Tuesday vote may renew year-round class issue

LIVERMORE — If Tuesday's school building measure doesn't pass, the question of year - round schools may come up again.

That possibility was suggested at Thursday night's candidate's night meeting, held at Portola school and run by the League of Women Voters. All three candidates, Ken Engelund, Betty Carrell and Demetra Wilson, thought year - round education was a possibility not to be overlooked. It was Mrs. Wilson who pointed out the community had rejected the idea two years ago.

"If the tax measure doesn't pass, we would have to look at it again," she said, referring to the $10.2 million measure which, if passed Tuesday, would provide several new schools.

Mrs. Wilson said she would only support it on a "strictly voluntary" basis.

Ken Engelund, current president of the school board, recalled one of the problems with keeping schools open all year was the projected $3 million cost of air conditioning them to make them habitable in the middle of summer.

Betty Carrell said flatly, "I like the idea of year - round schools. The student doesn't have three months of summer to forget what he's learned all winter. . . It would take a lot of work to work out 'an equitable system."

There was an air of intensity about the second and last public candidates' night before the election. Candidate Ed Butts had just dropped out of the race, throwing his support to Wilson and Engelund, the incumbents. The audience of about 50 was sprinkled with Citizens for Better Schools members and other, mostly conservative, supporters of Carrell; League of Women Voters members; some liberals who will probably back the incumbents; school trustees Dr. James McFarlane and Manuel Prado; and a handful of parents who wanted to know the candidates' stands on specific issues.

Because of the state Assembly contest which will also be on Tuesday's ballot, voter turnout is expected to be good. School - watchers see the contest for the " two available seats about evenly divided among Carrell, who has a cohesive group of Republicans working for her, and Wilson and Engelund, who are well known because they are now on the board. Carrell is known to be sympathetic toward parents who are dissatisfied with open classrooms and with Granada High's scheduling system, and would like to see a return to more traditional methods of schooling.

Engelund and Wilson, both certified teachers, lean more towards progressive education, although both feel neighborhood schools should offer alternative programs so everyone's needs may be satisfied.

Questions at the candidates' night were searching and significant. Trustee Manuel Prado wanted to know what each candidate's views were on bilingual education.

"One would have to demonstrate that the need is there," responded Engelund, referring to a district study last year which concluded there weren't enough Spanish - speaking children to justify a special program.

Mrs. Wilson was in favor of starting foreign - language teaching in kindergarten . "A child learns a foreign language best before he's 12," she noted. "And if he's learned a language, any language, before that age it makes it easier for him to pick up other languages later on."

In addition, the candidate favored English as a second

In contrast, Mrs. Carrell said, "The quickest way a child is going to learn English — which is, after all, the language of our land — is to use it entirely or almost entirely." She was in favor of bilingual teachers or aides "at the very lowest grades only."

Local resident Dr. Gordon Smith wanted to know whether Mrs. Carrell, if elected, would accept the $30 per meeting and $1,000 per year in medical - dental coverage the other members are accepting.

"That's a loaded question," the candidate groaned, but admitted she'd accept the compensation since she could be profitably employed as an engineer instead of working on the board and "I think my husband's a little bit more enthusiastic because there's some pay involved."

Asked about the teaching of English, Mrs. Carrell said there should be more written work in school, less oral work, papers should be corrected for grammar, punctuation, spelling and sentence structure, and "A good grade should not be given unless everything is correct."

On the other hand, candidate Wilson, dressed in cherry - red like her counterpart, wasn't convinced students are doing any worse in language now than they did many years ago when methods were more formal. She related the story of her husband, Jim, who went to the University of California 35 years ago and found "Bonehead English" courses to be rampant.

Asked what programs in the district are "innovation for innovation's sake," Mrs. Carrell cited the "new math," a national teaching method which is being phased out. She added the "PLAN" computerized project at Arroyo Mocho School should be evaluated before it is approved for a second year.

Challenged by Clarence Hoenig on her statement that hundreds of local students are attending Livermore High because they don't like the program at Granada, Mrs. Carrell stood behind her conviction that other reasons such as differences in the class offerings, change in boundaries and the fact that Livermore High has landscaping, a student union and other amenities, had little to do with their choice.

Trustee McFarlane tried to bring up the question of a 40 - student waiting list of teen-agers wanting to attend Livermore High who won't get their first choice of classes because their acceptance at Livermore will come after registration is over and the popular classes will have been snapped up.

"I've been told every student who wanted to go to Livermore High could go there," Mrs. Wilson responded. The other candidates had no comment.

Granada's mock wedding

LIVERMORE — There was a bridal reception at Granada High yesterday, but nobody got married.

The two - tier, luscious white wedding cake got carved up and doled out. The fizzy Hawaiian punch disappeared. The white tapers burned low on the pink - and - white centerpiece, and still no bride and groom except the plastic couple on top of the wedding cake.

It was all part of a new mini - course on "Survival in the Future," created by homemaking teacher Mary Cleland by popular demand.

The girls, 20 juniors and seniors and half of them engaged already, had gone through the "courtship" and "engagement" parts of the nine - week course and were finishing up the "wedding" unit with a mock reception. Their "future" also includes cooking for two (basic nutrition, consumer information on foods, food preparation); budgeting; decision - making; banking; inflation; taxes; comparison of interest rates on savings accounts; stocks and bonds.

The mock wedding featured a wedding cake which served 45, cost about $6 to make, and another $6 for the plastic decorations, as compared with $50 or $60 it would cost from a bakery.

A representative from Helen's Blossom Shop visited the class to demonstrate flower arranging, leaving the girls with a pink - and - white centerpiece for their pretend reception and with enough skills to make table decorations for a real wedding.

A field trip to Capwell's bridal department was an eye-operer. "Whew! It costs about $2,000 to have a wedding!" gasped Teresa Riggin, a senior who is getting married next September.

Her classmate, Vickie Levchenko, was modeling a long dress she'd made. Sewing your own bridal fashions is also part of the course.

Girls who make it through courtship, engagement, wedding and cooking - for - two may go on for the next nine weeks to the second mini - course in the series. During this course, the first baby will come and the girls will learn how to care for it from ages one to four. Visits to local nursery schools will give them practical experience in caring for toddlers.

Teacher Cleland has never taught anything like "Survival in the Future" before. The students themselves begged for it and more are asking to join the class all the time, she reports.

"I'm learning along with the girls!" she confesses as she prepares to tackle the technical aspects of banking and finance.

"No!" declared one jeans - clad girl who was perched on a closed sewing machine, waiting for a piece of cake.

"Well, maybe. Some day.

"I guess it would be nice."—

Murray tax election spurred by vagaries of Senate bill

Although Measure D on Tuesday's ballot would indeed raise taxes for Murray Elementary School District property owners, it is not officially termed a tax rate increase election.

The official name, due to the vaqueries of Senate Bill 90, is a revenue limit increase election.

The reason for the name change also provides an insight into the workings of SB 90, the 1972 bill that funds all public education in the State of California.

Each district in the state is required to calculate its average daily attendance (ADA) each year. That is why schools are so concerned about children attending classes — if they don't, as we shall see, the district gets less money.

That ADA is multiplied by a specific amount set by the state that changes each year(it is around $900 for elementary school students and around $1000 for high school students). The total is then given to the school district by the state to spend during the following school year.

In other words, the ADA for 1974-75 will determine how much the school district receives in 1975-76. If the ADA drops, the district gets less money; if it rises, it gets more money.

This seems fair enough, as a provision is established for inflation, but in practice many bugs have arisen. The first is inflation upwards of 10 per cent-- the original bill allowed for a maximum inflation rate of 7 percent, and the money, as with the ADA, came a year behind the actual hike.

The second is that if a district loses students, it loses money. If it loses money it must cut back in staff or in supplies and it loses more money than staff cutbacks alone can satsify. For example, 30 students would cost a high school district $30,000 if they left the area — however, the district would have to cut two teachers to make up the difference.

Also, inflation has greatly affected the price of raw materials — such as paper, pencils and so on — and those costs rise regardless of the number of students.

However, things are not rosy if attendance rises too much either, for SB 90 has no provisions for building new schools. That money has to come from bond issues, which Livermore is seeking to pass this time around.

But for districts with shrinking enrollments and rising costs, SB 90 spells nothing but trouble. Districts like MESD must then go to the voters and ask that the voters approve the district spending more than the state allottment per student.

In other words, Measure D asks that MESD be allowed to spend more than $900 per student, which the state supplies, and asks that the local property tax supply the extra funds.

So, in contrast to the upcoming Valley Community Services District parks and recreation tax rate increase election that asks for a specific raise in the rate(39 cents), the MESD measure is necessarily vague.

The amount of money required to raise the revenue limit $75 for 10,000 students is $750,000; for 1000 students it is $75,000. The Murray district has approximately 5800 students this year but that number has been dropping steadily recently. Thus the revenue limit increase might be more expensive the first time around than it ever will be again.

On the other hand, if more people with elementary school age children move in in the future, it could cost more later on than it does now.

However, the problems that beset MESD are not isolated. SB 90 has failed throughout the state in providing adequate funds for school districts—especially those with dropping enrollments.

It is likely some modification of SB 90 will occur soon, or a completely new scheme for financing school districts will be introduced in the state legislature.

But that's in the future. Districts like Murray need the money now and that is why Measure D is on the ballot.

Recreation priorities analyzed at Livermore

LIVERMORE — A capacity crowd packed Justice Court for Wednesday night's Park and Recreation commission meeting in anticipation of proposed changes in project priorities.

Chairman Charles Gielow changes of construction priorities for city-wide sites, and the commission exhumed and disected priority lists before agreeing the priorities should stand.

Representatives of the Deep Water Pool committee, Ballistic Soccer, Little League, and the Cultural Arts League packed the courtroom to ensure their particular projects their place on the priority list.

The meeting opened with the acceptance of dates for the Racquet Club's proposed tournament, setting Apr. 19, 20, and May 17 for open mixed doubles, and Jun. 14, 15, for open men and women's singles.

Men's and women's singles will be held Jul 12, 1 3, 19, 20, with club men and women doubles Aug. 19, 20.

An open junior tournament will be held Aug. 13, 14, 15, followed by club mixed doubles Sept. 6, 7.

Gielow probed representatives of the racquet club to ensure the 75 - 25 percent split between Pleasanton residents will be maintained in the tournaments, and that they not be limited to club members, but rather "well publicized" as "open to the public."

DEEP WATER POOL

Dolores Bengston of the Deep Water Pool Committee presented the citizens' advisory panel's recommendations on specifications, including a 14-foot depth to the recommended 75- by 45-foot, $90,000 State funded project.

Arguing to ensure the pool's place on the priority list, Bengston noted completion of the deep water addition would complete the acquatic park and allow full activities, including youth and adult training.

"It's like having a baseball diamond without third base," she said.

The 75- by 45-foot dimension, she noted, would provide the city with a "standard short course pool," providing facilities for water sports in addition to training and diving. Present facilities offer a maximum depth of five-feet.

The committee considered the dimensions the most practical, offered alternatives to heating and filtration systems, and a while it less expensive "gutter system".

Fourteen percent of Alameda County's swimming lessons were given in Pleasanton, she pointed out, adding 2,800 children participated in last summer's program.

"We need that deep water pool to expand our teaching efforts, to make children — and adults — fully water oriented." The pool will be paid for through State Proposition 1 funds which total $156,000.

In other action, the commission passed the schedule of field use for youth and adult league sports, and posponed committee assignments by asking recreation superintendent Bob Caporusso to divide the 11 committees into five categories.

Committees will be assigned at the next meeting.

Livermore FFA scores contest win

The Livermore Future Farmers of America "B" Parliamentary Procedure team recently captured the North Coast Regional Championship in Livermore.

Team members Barbara Forman, David Oxsen, Sandy Strain, Nancy Calhoun, Joe and Joe Duarte (along with alternate Lauralee Hinde) are now eligible for the state championship.

That event will be held in San Luis Obispo May 9. Ron Furtado is the coach of the squad.

Jane Foote wins honor

LIVERMORE — Joan Foote has been named Livermore High School 1974 - 75 Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow, it was announced by Betty Frary of the homemaking department.

Joan won the honor by competing with other seniors in the written knowledge and attitude examination Dec. 3. She is now eligible for state and national honors and will receive an award from General Mills, Inc., sponsors of the annual promotion.

used by Democrats for Nixon but he was neither 'vocal' nor 'active' as charged and did not contribute to the campaign. Floyd agrees that Nixon was a bad choice and repudiates the Nixon type campaign tactics."

As for the charge that Mori "boasted he had defeated the 'Democratic Machine', Mano said, "Any reference to a 'machine' was not intended in a derogatory sense." He added, "Those familiar with the Mori campaign during the primary are amazed at the victory. To us the opposition looked like a well-polished functioning machine, very professional and expert with many long-time loyal party members. We were a group of amateurs with little experience and made many mistakes. Most of us do not even know what a political 'machine' is."

Responding to the charge that Mori has "consistently refused to accept any campaign reforms," Mano said Mori agrees political reform is necessary but added, Puccio "had already spent $40,000 up to the November general election in obtaining name recognition. It appeared that he wished to stop Floyd from getting equal exposure by placing spending limits on the special election."

Mano continued, "Political reform is admirable but, in this case, it appeared also to be politically advantageous through limiting his opponent's exposure or, if he did not agree, making it possible to claim that Mori is against political reform."

As for the claim that Mori has "made himself almost totally inaccessible to the voters," Mano said, "His personal telephone was on his first district-wide mailer with the invitation to call him at any time. He has not 'repeatedly refused to meet his opponent publicly' as claimed. Puccio admits that this is not true, having met with Floyd at least a half dozen times during this short campaign."

The charge that Mori is representing the Democratic Party by a "fluke" is also refuted by Mano. He said, "The 'fluke' is that Floyd Mori got the highest number of votes in the primary election."

helping with the technical end of the effort.

This week's production will consist of about a 15 - minute silent broadcast of lists of events, sports, committee meetings and the day's menu, artfully introduced with little sketches by Heineman's wife, Pat, also a Livermore teacher.

The show will be repeated for about three hours, cutting off just before Televue's regularly scheduled programs begin at 10:30 a.m.

At the helm early Monday morning besides Heineman will be eighth grader Tom Booth, helping to synchronize the show.

One of the technical problems which has to be ironed out is lack of some of the equipment needed to broadcast the sound portion of the show — necessary for those behind - the - doors look at classrooms and programs.

Also, Heineman wants to make sure the manpower is available to operate the little broadcasting station every morning at the crack of dawn.

It's believed the first broadcast of its kind in the area. Equipment, ranging from warehouse discards to an $800 sound machine, has been purchased with 50 cents per pupil in federal funding available to districts with their own TV stations. Air time is available free from Televue.

"Eventually, we'd like to get the city in on this — the fire department, police, hospital, and so on" says the enthusiastic Heineman. "Besides publicizing their coming events they could give little tips — for example, an announcement that poison oak season is coming and how to recognize the plant."—

Girl Scout boosters will meet

A gathering of Livermore Amador Valley Association Girl Scout leaders, co-leaders and registered adults working to help Valley Girl Scouts, will be held at the Presbyterian Church, Neal Street, Pleasanton on Wednesday, March 5 at 9:30 a.m. and repeated at the Girl Scout Cabin on Ladd Ave, Livermore at 7:30 p.m. the same day.

Babysitting will be available in the morning session only.

The program will include tips on troop camping given by Dawn Gordner.

For further information, call Pat Brown, association chairman at 447-3154.

Gauges found after chase not stolen

LIVERMORE — A stew may be brewing over Thursday morning's 100-plus mph chase through Livermore that ended when a police car rammed the suspected vehicle into an embankment on Tesla Road.

Charlie Patterson, father of the driver of the hotly pursued Mustang, called The Times to complain of the allegation that several auto gauges found in the car might be stolen.

Police quickly confirmed that the goods were not stolen, as Patterson offered proof of ownership.

But the imbroglio may grow over the father's as yet unofficial allegations that his son received a black eye at the chase's end, and that police delayed nearly four hours in calling the parents.

Capt. of traffic Essex says the black eye was not caused by police, but may have occured as the car was rammed off the road.

Patterson claims "legal authority" told him the parents of any juvenile under investigation must be present during the interrogation, and that the police waited until after questioning his son before calling him.

Patterson was most persistent in claiming his son was "roughed up," alleging officers "slung him down over the hood of the car," pulled him by the hair — "He's still got a headache from it" — and held him at gun point.

Police deny any allegations of brutality, adding it is standard procedure to search a suspect across the hood of a car.

Patrolman Lou Andrade, the arresting officer, emphatically adds that there was no mistreatment, acknowledging he did hold his revolver on the car because "I didn't know what I had."

Essex noted the father's right to file a formal complaint for investigation, but as of Friday night, no such steps had been taken.

The young Patterson allegedly fled police because his license had been suspended after several speeding citations.

Airport unit slates meet

LIVERMORE — Putting their mouth where their money is, Airport Advisory Committee members will hold their monthly meeting at the Crosswinds Restaurant Monday at noon.

The committee had been meeting at The Rancher but now that the restaurant at the Las Positas Golf Course is under new management, it decided to give it a chance.

The airport, restaurant and golf course all are municipally owned but operated by private contractors.

During the latter half of last year, the restaurant was delinquent in its rent payments to the city and the quality of service and food was said to be poor.

In January, an experienced restaurateur bought into the business managing the Crosswinds, worked out a city council-approved schedule of back rent payments and now is managing the restaurant.

Scheduled to be discussed at the committee's meeting Monday are status reports on the airport master plan and land use study; west clear zone purchase, fuel, and budget preparation.

Lighting of the apron area also will be up for discussion.

4-Hers will meet again March 5

PLEASANTON — Abbie 4-H will hold its next meeting March 5 at Pleasanton Elementary School.

Members of Abbie's skit committee put on their skit for the February meeting. It was a takeoff of Mother Nature versus Euell Gibbons with the help of the 4-H.

Abbie came in second in the area talent show night and will compete in a county wide skit night.

In mid-February, Abbie members and some of their parents went to Big Trees in Calaveras County for a snow trip.

Cindy Jantzen made All-Star in 4-H.

Seductive Structure

Mike Zampa

Eldred Chance, the moving force behind last month's unification of Livermore soccer, welds together some carefully planned phrases in describing the conglomeration of 1,500 youngsters into a single unit, the Livermore Soccer Club.

The most encouraging euphemism is a job description of all the adults involved in administration of youth soccer. "Backround services," Chance calls it. That covers everyone, from game officials to the president of the giant youth group, who will be elected Monday night incidentally.

The idea that adults are marching a couple of steps behind the youngsters is good.

The grownups belong in the shadows. Little league sport too often serves men and women whose only desire is to manage something — even if its a bunch of unmanageable kids.

When it was first announced that Livermore was merging all of its independent soccer clubs (except the Royal Club which voted to remain autonomous) it seemed another case of adults fooling around with the youngsters' game. Afterall Livermore thrived for eight years with six distinct soccer agencies for kids. Why bother to alter things?

Were the directors acting out another management fantasy?

No, Chance says. They wanted to streamline kids' soccer in Livermore and standardize it. The shift is for the benefit of youngsters playing the sport, he says.

You can argue that "streamline and standardize," smack of rigid structure, and that kids get too much of that already. But 1,500 school-age boys sought out the organized soccer leagues this past season. Apparently they enjoy the formality of striped fields, referees and coaches, and adoring fans.

Directors of Livermore youth soccer assume that. Their thrust now, according to Chance, is to make the game more fun for kids.

The biggest change in this merger, besides the disintegration of five distinct soccer clubs, will be in the stocking of teams. Players will be placed in the lineup with teammates of equal ability, to face opponents of near equal talent.

That will neccessitate cumbersome tryouts for every youngster next Fall, Chance says. That should be the only indication to the kids that things are different with Livermore soccer. The inconvenience is worth it, he insists.

For one, this system protects the tender ego of young players. More important, Chance admits, coaches won't be reluctant to adhere to the 50 per cent rule. Livermore soccer teams are committed to playing every player half of every game. There's no sense explaining how the rule fares when a coach is in the heat of battle. But now, according to Chance, team members should have similar ability. The level of play won't drop with substitutions, he says. In effect, the merger will make honest men out of coaches.

The Livermore Soccer Club will operate two levels of competition. The key will be the City League, Chance says.

This is for everyone who registers, but aimed at beginning , or part-time players. From these games top players will be selected for Al Caffodio soccer. That is a higher level of skill, and pits Livermore teams against out of town opponents.

Al Caffodio soccer was a big concern when merger was first considered. Soccer officials felt Livermore would benefit by one huge league, funneling players into the same Caffodio teams. "This certainly wasn't our primary goal," Chance cautions. "The majority of kids aren't that caliber of player. Our thinking has always been toward City Soccer. But it was a reason. It's important to the kids playing at that level."

The mechanics of merger moved swiftly in Livermore. A committee to investigate it formed in December, headed by Chance, vice president for the Independent Soccer Club.

Representatives from all of the city's clubs were involved. The Independent, St. Michael's and Atomic clubs surveyed entire memberships to ascertain the mood towards merger. Perhaps five per cent of the respondents objected, Chance said. There was overwhelming agreement on the issue and that was gratifying. Youth sports folks agree on nothing.

Five weeks of committee meetings led to bylaws and a constitution, and late in February the Livermore Soccer Club was approved by the entire family of city clubs.

Its swift approval was stunning to old timers who remember previous attempts at merger. Those were hooted down.

But since then, Chance says, the climate has changed. "Individual clubs stopped their immense growth programs," he says. "And with the start of the Livermore Youth Soccer Organization, (the agency that ran city-wide teams for older players) people found when they put aside personal disagreements, everybody ran their clubs pretty much the same way."

The Livermore Soccer Club will stage its first general election Monday night at the Livermore Recreation Center East Room at 8 p.m. The Center is at Eighth and H streets. As many as 300 people could show up, Chance estimates, to select top officers. The job will be difficult because officials have to guide 1,500 kids, and at the same time remember Chance's promise to keep to the back of the bus.

Giants steal 3rd from Dons

Mark Kilmer, goat of Friday night's semifinal game with El Cerrito, stole the ball at midcourt and went all the way for a lay-in to give the Redwood Giants a 41-39 victory over Amador in the third place game of the North Coast Section basketball championships last night at Cal State-Hayward.

The same two teams will meet next Thursday in the opening round of the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum.

Kilmer, whose missed lay-in against El Cerrito cost Redwood a shot at the NCS championship, played sparingly last night, but made his only field goal attempt of the evening count.

Jack Hagler of Redwood, who fouled out with 3:39 remaining in the game, led all scorers with 22 points. Hagler shot an astonishing 75 per cent from the field, sinking nine of 12 tries.

Only one Don could reach double figures. Jeff Hine scored 10 points, as the Dons did not enjoy a superlative shooting night. They connected on just 36 percent of their shots.

Amador out-rebounded the Giants by a slim 30-26 count, as both centers, Andy Finn of AV and Steve Trobbe of the Giants, grabbed nine.

Kilmer, while not shooting with reckless abandon, fed off for a game-high four assists.

Amador grabbed the lead at the outset of the contest, thanks to an offensive explosion by Hine. Jeff opened the scoring with a 10-foot jumper, and after Hagler had answered with a 20-foot bomb, he fed Finn for a hoop and canned another jumper himself.

But Redwood quickly came back, as Gary Sorgen and Hagler each hit from the outside to tie the score at six with 4:42 left in the first period.

Amador again got a slight edge on the Giants, as it scored two baskets within the next minute, a Hine lay-in and a 15-foot jumper by Steve Mohatt.

Redwood, in particular Hagler, refused to let the Dons open up any sort of a lead. The Giants outscored AV, 8-2, for the rest of the first quarter.

The 6-2 Hagler made his shooting percentage all the more impressive, as he scored four baskets from outside 20 feet in the first quarter alone.

Amador appeared ready to take the halftime lead when Hine sank both ends of a one-and-one situation with 3:06 remaining.

But Hagler fired in a jumper from 23 feet away, and the last 2:48 went scoreless, leaving the teams in a 22-22 deadlock at intermission.

Amador got the game's only commanding lead, as it outscored Redwood, 10-1, during the first 3:54 of the third quarter.

Mike Hill paced the Dons' binge with a pair of lay-ins.

Once again, it was Hagler who kept the Giants in the contest , scoring four points in the final three minutes of the quarter to make it 33-27, Dons.

During the fourth quarter, the lead went back and forth like a ping pong ball.

With 2:23 to play, Rich Hall stole the ball from the Giants and drove for a lay-in to give the Dons a 37-35 lead.

But Trobbe came back with two inside hoops, one a tip-in of a missed field goal by Sorgen, to put Redwood up, 39-37.

Andy Finn, who had perhaps his worst shooting night of the year, 23 per cent, provided Amador with its last gasp, as he tied the score with a short jumper with just over a minute left to play.

The Dons regained possession and went into a slowdown offense, hoping for the last shot. But Kilmer's heroics changed all that. - Dave Weber

Kudos to the soccer kids

Three teams from the Pleasanton Ballistic Soccer League took Nevada by storm last month when they won their respective tournaments in the first Silver State Invitational Soccer Tournament in Las Vegas. The teams were in the 10, 12 and 14 age categories. The city council passed a resolution Monday night commending the soccer teams. Mayor Floyd Mori is shown above congratulating Larry Boldrini, president of the Ballistic Soccer League.

Mohatt: lack of poise cost us O'Dowd game

A disconsolate Amador head coach Skip Mohatt stood on the Dublin High basketball court moments after his Dons were upended by the Bishop O'Dowd Dragons and looked over the final game statistics. Blaring out of the paper was Mike Ward's 19 rebounds, which moved Mohatt to remark, "That was the key to the game. Ward is one of the hardest working postmen I've seen."

With Ward rebounding at will and Scott Finnie bombing home 25 footers the Dragons earned a hard-fought 56-49 win Friday night in the North Coast Section playoff semi-finals.

The Dragons met El Cerrito, the ACAL runners-up, for the NCS title last night.

Al Ferreia, the Dragons' head man, and Mohatt cited one of the game's intangibles, poise, as the key.

"We held our poise, and that's what won it for us," Ferreia explained. "We've been in a lot of close ballgames, and poise has been one of our plusses."

"It was our lack of poise, our lack of agressiveness that cost us the game," Mohatt remarked. "We didn't play any better tonight than we played against Monte Vista."

The Dons led after one stanza at 13-12 when the Dragons fast break offense turned against them when they continually threw the ball away.

Two Rob Yackley lay-ups, a 22 foot jumper and a pair of free throws from Jeff Hine accounted for the Dons early lead.

At this point the quickness and constant harassment by BOD's Finnie, Grantland Bailey and George Andrews began to take its toll on Amador.

Andrews picked Rich Hall clean and spun in for a lay-up to move the Dragons on top 14-13.

Bailey meshed a pair of free throws after being fouled by Hine to move the Dragons into a lead they didn't relinquish until Hine's twisting lay up knotted the score at 35.

Bill Maloney tipped in an errant Ward shot to put the Dragons on top, 37-35, and that was as close as the Dons got.

Maloney, who did not start the game but entered when Andrews pulled a hamstring muscle, had two key tip-ins as the Dragons continued to dominate the taller Dons on the boards.

Finnie launched a 25 foot corner shot through the hoop and squirmed by Finn for a lay-up to put O'Dowd on top 43-39 after three quarters.

The play that sealed the game for the Dragons occurred when Bailey took a pass from Phil Marrow and laid he ball in while he was being fouled by Hine.

That call was the icing on the cake on an incredibly poor night of officiating.

Bailey swished the free throw and it was all over.

Finnie, returning to his former home town, connected on six of 15 shots and two of three charity tosses for 14 points.

Amador's big man, Finn, connected for 14 to share game scoring honors with Finnie.

Hine added 11 more to the Dons' cause, but managed to hit only three of 7 free throws

Turnovers rally, win

The Turnovers, paced by Rich Zwakenburg's eight second-half points, overcame a five-point intermission deficit to trim Associated Professions, 34-33 in Livermore recreation basketball Thursday.

Zwakenburg finished as the team's leading scorer with 10 points. Irv Lindemuth and Bob Harrach each scored six points. Associated's Bob Sherman had a game-high 11, and Jim Brown added 10.

Parker Research blasted B Electric, 40-29, surviving a 21-point performance from Brian O'Hagan.

Larry Moberg topped Parker with 13 points, and Pete Brown added eight.

Napoli Liquors defeated Dan's Place, 51-31, on the shooting of Terry Cavin. He scored 16 points, and teammate Walt Packard had 10.

Tom Rein poured in 16 for Dan's.

The Warriors out-lasted Sandia No.1, 29-26.

Fairgrounds' new links

Add another 18 holes to the valley's inventory of golf layouts, effective May 15.

Ron Curtola expects to be in business by mid - May with his new miniature golf spread at the fairgrounds in Pleasanton. The popular golf operation will occupy a former picnic area alongside Pleasanton Avenue.

The Curtolas will add the miniature golf operation to the full nine holes they opened one year ago inside the oval of the race track. Pleasanton Fairways operates year - around, with a break during the two weeks of the Alameda County Fair. The new pee wee golf attraction will however operate right through the summer without a break, Curtola says. Lights will permit play up until 10 o'clock each evening.

Rambo edges foe to take 115 championship

Monte Vista's Todd Rambo held on for a 4-3 decision over Greg Maxfield of Irvington in the finals of the 115 pound weight division at the North Coast Region II wrestling tournament at Amador High last night.

The pair were tied at the end of the first round, 2-2. Rambo was awarded his two for a reversal, and Maxfield got his on a takedown.

The deadlock continued through the second round, as neither man seemed to have the edge. But in the final period, Rambo quickly registered another takedown for 4-2.

Maxfield was awarded his third point when Rambo was whistled for stalling.

"There's no way I was stalling. I was really working hard," Rambo said afterward.

He's a good wrestler for a junior. We had a really fine match," Rambo added.

San Ramon's Steve Ramos gave the EBAL a sweep of the championship bracket in the 115's, as he thoroughly outpointed Mike Barnett of Newark, 12-2. Ramos sailed to a 7-0 lead in the first round.

Granada's Bret Nadeau recovered several times during the course of the 98 pound final, but lost narrowly to Gary Hunnicutt of Washington (Fremont) when Hunnicutt scored a takedown with six seconds to go.

Hunnicutt won, 10-9.

Monte Vista's Tom McDaniel won the consolation final in the 123 pound division, decisioning Amador's Rich Tiago, 8-6.

Tiago scored an escape shortly before the end of the match to tie it at 6-6. But in the final half minute, McDaniel took Tiago to the mat for the clinching two points.

Dublin's Art Gerow reached the final of the 130 pound division, where he met Hoffman of Irvington. Gerow opened with a bye, then defeated Nix of St. Patrick's, 3-2, and Ray Jenkins of Livermore, 2-1.

Jenkins later lost to San Ramon's Jack Hart, who made the 130 consolation match against Nix.

Granada's Keith Texiera met Tim Lukecart of Dublin in the consolation final of the 136's. Texiera knocked over Art Brannan of Amador, 8-0, and Martinez of Irvington, 2-1, en route to the evening EBAL showdown.

Meanwhile, Lukecart lost to Sanbenorio of Logan, pinned Harris of California School for the Deaf 55 seconds into the second round, and nipped Kelsey of American, 5-4.

Terry Moxon of Granada took on Mills of American in the 141 consolation final. After two morning losses, Moxon opened the consolation bracket with a bye. He went on to decision Livermore's Roger Capri, 5-2, and got by Memorial's Viscarra, 6-5.

An unlikely entry in the 148-pound consolation final was Bart Wooten of Monte Vista. He wrestled Guy Critella of Washington, the man responsible for knocking him out of the championship bracket earlier in the day.

San Ramon's Dale Voegli entered the consolation final of the 168's with victories over Weigle of Washington, 9-1, and Glen Hendershot of Monte Vista, 2-0.

Heavy favorite Doug Pope of Livermore advanced to the final of the 178 pound division by pinning Washington's Weigle and Kennedy's Whitlow, both in the second round, then handing Monte Vista's Mike Weinshelbaum a 12-0 defeat.

Monte Vista's Casey Merrill disposed of Kennedy's Harris and Dublin's Bob Klein, both on pins, then entered the final of the 194 pound category, where he met Granada's Ron Freeman.

Freeman, meanwhile, pinned Arbgas of Irvington and won by decision over Maloney of St. Patrick's and Mendez of American.

Granada's Mike McGowan met Mission San Jose's Sullivan in the final of the heavyweight division. After a forfeit victory in his opening slot, McGowan took care of CSD's Leomite to move into the evening's final match.

Rob Mayhue of Amador faced Leomite in the heavyweight consolation final.

Matadors capture third at VFW

Exploding for an incredible 19 consecutive points early in the second quarter, the Granada Matadors posted an 8076 win over McClymonds Warriors for third place last night in the Granada - Livermore City Classic basketball tournament.

The Matadors were behind 22 - 21 when they reeled off 19 unanswered points. Scott Campbell led that barrage with eight points, one a 26-foot jump shot. Lee Brennan, Rich Guittierez, Dave Campbell, and Joey Wujek all contributed during the Mats' spree.

Some amazing outside shooting by the Warriors' Martin GoVain kept McClymonds in the game.

GoVain hit on 12 of 17 shots of the field and added a free throw to complete the game with 25 points.

Granada was cruising along with a 17 point lead, 66 - 49 when GoVain hit three 15 foot jump shots to enable the Warriors to crawl within 11 at 66 - 55.

Wujek came off the bench and hit two lay-ups to put the Matadors back in the driver's seat.

Scott Campbell lead the Matadors in scoring with 21. The 6-4 guard connected on 10 field goals and a single free throw.

Brennan, 6-7, patroled the boards and contributed 16 points.

In the consolation final, San Ramon High's comeback attempt fell inches short, as the St. Joseph's Pilots squeaked out a 67-65 win.

The Wolves were down, 67-63, when Jim Hogeboom hit an 18-foot jumper with 15 seconds left in the game. San Ramon quickly regained possession when Ed Lankford dribbled the ball out of bounds.

With seven seconds left, Jim Kaldem drove to the basket and was called for an offensive foul.

The Wolves commanded a narrow 29-28 halftime lead, but with Lankford scoring six of his 11 points in the third stanza, the Pilots went on top for good and led, 48-46, going into the final quarter.

San Ramon climbed into the consolation final via a 75-65 win over San Juan, while St. Joe's upended Acalanes, 48-44, in early games Friday night.

In the seventh place game, San Juan ran by Acalanes, 68-65.

Leading San Juan in scoring were Steve Miller, a 6-4 center, and Martin Ensbury, with 18 points each. — Steve Mona

Nicklaus grabs lead in Gleason

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, exhibiting the authority that has made him the game's premier performer, came from five strokes off the pace Saturday with a solid 66 and took the third-round lead in the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, overshadowed in recent months by the heroics of the absent Johnny Miller, played the 7,128-yard Inverrary Country Club course in six-under-par, and did not birdie a par-five hole.

"That is very, very unusual," Nicklaus said. "I suppose I've had this good a score before and did not birdie a par-five, but it's very unusual."

He finished three rounds of the richest tournament on the tour this year with a 202 total, 14 under par.

Eddie Pearce, the 22-year old tour sophomore who led the second round, missed 10-foot birdie putts on his last two holes, finished with a 72 and was one shot out of the lead at 203.

Desperately scrambling Arnold Palmer, Bob Murphy and Tom Kite followed at 205, just three shots out of the lead. Palmer hit all over the course — he called it "really kind of frightening" — but escaped with a 71.

"Awful," Palmer said. "I hit some of the worst tee shots I've hit in 20 years. It was an unbelievable round."

Murphy had a 66 in the bright, warm, sunny weather and Kite shot 70.

Tom Weiskopf moved into contention at 206 after a 66.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin had a 72 for 207. PGA king Lee Trevino was nine shots back at 211 after a 71. Miller, a three-time winner this season, is not competing.

Nicklaus has long contended that "the third round is the round that you set yourself up to win the golf tournament."

And he used that favorite formula to perfection, playing with the controlled power and intense concentration that has gained him a record 14 major championships.

Starting five strokes behind, he birdied the first hole from 20 feet. He holed a 12-foot putt for birdie on the fifth and made his big rush coming home.

Nicklaus scored a deuce from 18 feet on the 12th and wedged to three feet on the next hole.

That put him one shot back.

He lipped out a 12-foot birdie putt on the 16th hole, gained a share of the lead with a 15-footer on the next and took full control on the final hole, stroking a wedge only five feet from the cup.

US-Soviet meet hinges on Pacific Coast stars

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Provided the top finishers in the Amateur Athletic Union's national meet elect to compete, the Americans could throw their strongest team in history at the Russians here Monday night in the fourth USSR-USA indoor track and field meet.

Two world indoor record holders — men's high jumper Dwight Stones and women's miler Francie Larrieu, both of the Pacific Coast Club — won their events Friday night and qualified for the Russian meet, even though neither approached the standards set earlier.

In addition, Rick Wohlhuter of the Chicago Track Club, the world outdoor record holder in the half mile, won the 1,000-yard run, giving him the 880 berth against the Russians, and Steve Williams of San Diego, the 100-meter record holder, qualified in the 60.

If there was any consolation for the Soviet team, many of whose best performers were left behind to compete in the European Games, it was the showing of women's shot putter Faina Melnik and men's pole vaulters Valeriy Boikov and Janis Lauris.

Miss Melnik took the shot put with a heave of 55-7, more than four feet better than the top American, Maren Seidler of the Mayor Daley Youth Foundation.

And Boikov tied for second in the pole vault at 17-6, the same height cleared by winner Roland Carter of the Gulf Coast Track Club. Lauris was sixth at 17 feet as a record nine performers cleared that height.

While the Americans were getting ready during the week for the AAU meet, most of the Russians were working out locally in their bid for a third victory in the four years the indoor affair has been held.

The Americans swept the Russians here in 1972 but the Soviets scored a sweep last year in Moscow.

'Feel good' phone service is offered

The first step to Feeling Good is to call 357 - 0121.

"Feeling Good" is a new telephone referral service that costs a bit in toll - call money for Valley residents but can be well worth it in information. Volunteers have the latest information on where to get free or cheap county services, and who is eligible.

The service is operated by the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency in conjunction with the KQED Community Outreach Project.

Muir Hospital eases visit rules

WALNUT CREEK — John Muir Hospital will have liberalized visiting hours from now on.

Effective Monday, March 3, adult medical - surgical and pediatric patients will be able to receive visitors from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Husbands or parents of maternity patients will also be able to visit between those hours.

Maternity patients on modified rooming - in may be visited only by their husbands from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

According to Margaret Christina, R.N., assistant administrator for patient care services, "The change was made to allow visitors who, due to their own schedules, might have been unable to visit patients during our previously set times.

"We also hope these new hours will help to relieve the congestion of visitors, particularly during the evening hours, which can be tiring to patients."

Children under 12 will still be banned from the hospital and visiting hours will remain the same in intensive care and cardiac care units.

Blood bank is coming

The Blood Bank of the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association will be at the Val Vista Building, Payne Road, Pleasanton on March 4 from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

In May the unit will return to the Veterans' Hall.

Untroubled waters

Barbara Waters of Heritage Realtors (right) received the Sales Associate of the Month Award recently at the Heritage Banquet. Here manager Joyce Brown hands out the commemorative plaque and broker Doug Hall looks on. Waters sold $795,650 worth of real estate for the month.

So, what's new?

There are eight tiny new Valley residents, according to the maternity departments of two Bay Area hospitals.

At Valley Memorial Hospital, Livermore, Harry and Jo Ann Spears welcomed a daughter, Monica Ethel, Feb. 8. The family lives at 455 Stanford Court, Livermore.

John Muir Hospital, Walnut Creek, reports boys born Feb. 13 to Robert and Margaret Scofield, 412 Fernando Court, San Ramon, and Stephen and Linda Glaholt, 7897 Firebrand Drive, Dublin.

Also at Muir, a girl Feb. 15 to James and Linda Seibert, 3056 Bernard Ave., San Ramon; a girl Feb. 16 to Frederick and Patricia Rodrigues, 9803 Broadmoor, San Ramon; a boy Feb. 18 to Lloyd and DeEtta Pipes, 90 Pioneer Court, San Ramon; and a boy to Douglass and Susan Adams, 2752 Bollinger Canyon Road, San Ramon, Feb. 24.

Chabot free planetarium

HAYWARD — Valley esidents are invited to free planetarium shows on Stonehenge, the fascinating prehistoric monument on England's Salisbury Plain.

The programs will be at Chabot College, beginning Tuesday, March 4 and continuing Tuesdays and Fridays at 7 and 8 p.m. through March 21. The shows are part of a continuing program of free programs in the college planetarium.

"We will use the planetarium to re - create Stonehenge as it was 4,000 years ago," said planetarium director Larry Toy. "This will enable us to explain why it is now believed that Stonehenge was an ancient astronomical observatory."

"Mystery of Stonehenge" will also include a discussion of solar and lunar eclipses

The planetarium is on the Chabot campus, 25555 Hesperian Blvd., Hayward.

Wagerman of Heritage Realtors Discusses Interest Rate Trend

"Inflation is an unpleasant fact of the present times," says Dean Wagerman of HERITAGE REALTORS, 7124 Village Parkway, Dublin, "but potential home buyers are getting a break right now in the area of interest charges."

Mortgage interest rates soared last year and discouraged many people from making home purchases, but the outlook is brighter now and the real estate and construction industries are getting a needed boost in the midst of a recession. The benefits to the buyer are obvious.

Dean explained that "while interest rates peaked at—11 and 12 per cent late last year most savings and loan associations, who provide most house loans, have lowered their rates to 9 3/4 and 9 1/2 per cent. In the area of tract developments, some loans are available as low as 8 ¾ and 8 ½ per cent."

As to the reason for dipping interest rates, Dean says that "savings deposits have increased in many savings and loan associations. A report from the Savings and Loan League notes that the dramatic improvement in savings inflow is illustrated by a gain of $450 million in January while it was $250 a year ago."

There are strong indications also that people will put their income tax rebates into savings instead of buying goods, thus having a loosening affect on the money market.

"Money is available for mortgages for single family homes," Dean claims, "but many people are concerned about the future of the economy and tend to be reluctant to part with their funds. When a home purchase is contemplated, however, there may not be a better time than NOW to buy, since mortgage rates could very well be reaching their low. If potential home buyers wait too long they may end up paying more in the long - run, should those rates begin to rise again . . ."

Dean also points out that "building costs continue to climb, so if you can find the house you want now, don't hesitate too long or your pocketbook may feel even greater pains."

Home of The Week

"Spectacular" describes this lovely Miramar home. Situated on an over-sized lot the home features a charming open staircase, 4 generous bedrooms, 2 ½ baths and two-story living. Upgraded carpets and built-in bookcases are some of the extras, as well as a quiet circle location. $59,500. For details call Gordon Wilbur at VINTAGE REALTY, 164 Main St., Pleasanton 462-2884.

Brownie troop greets visitor

LIVERMORE — Brownie Troop 325, led by Linda Bell, welcomed an international visitor from Japan, Chizuko Kato, at a recent meeting.

Miss Kato spoke to the girls about Japanese customs of living. This was to help celebrate Girl Scout Thinking Day on Feb. 22.

The girls also celebrated the week by a special date with their dads for a potluck dinner and a banana split dessert treat.

They have also taken a tour of Livermore's airport and control tower.

Dublin optometrist Dr. Milton Levin (right) was honored recently by the Alameda - Contra Costa Counties Optometric Society as the outstanding Young Optometrist of the Year. Levin has done extensive work with low - vision patients after graduating from the University of California at Berkeley School of Optometry in 1971. He spends part of his time teaching there and the rest of the time at his office in Dublin. Dr. Roy Black of Hayward presents the award.

Hexcel Corp. reports sales boosts

DUBLIN — Buoyed by a record fourth quarter, Hexcel Corporation's sales for 1974 totalled $55.5 million, a 36-percent increase over the $40.9 million reported for 1973.

After a downward adjustment resulting from a change to the LIFO (Last-In-First-Out) method of accounting for valuing domestic honeycomb inventory, net earnings for the year were $2,169,000, up 15-percent over the prior year, and earnings per share were $1.67, a 10-percent increase over 1973's $1.52.

This accounting change reduced reported 1974 earnings

Who's that man in the turban?

lifestyle

By EDNA WEHRSDORFER

My first sighting of Gurnam Singh Sidhu came as somewhat of a surprise.

His beard and turban bespoke membership in the Sikh faith. Yet he and his family were riding their bikes on a fine winter day in Livermore.

Days later, we were to discuss Sikhism and Sikh family life over cups of milk - laden Indian tea.

"The Sikh religion emphasizes ethical living rather than religious rituals," Gurnam explains. "I can't think of anything that would be easier to believe. It doesn't conflict with my common sense or daily experience."

"I'm a fellow traveller," comments his wife, Gail." "It's easy to be. You needn't be deeply religious or concerned with detail."

A Sikh doesn't condemn other religions. He believes you should be a good person in your own faith. The religion does not seek converts, although it accepts them.

It's a faith that rules out discrimination based on caste, color, race, sex or social status, emphasizing truth and opposing miracles and superstitions. Members become close to God by living ethically, being part of society and not escaping from humanity.

"I follow my family's value system and Sikhism has given me basic values Gurnam explains his faith as attachment to ancestral paths.

Sikhism grew out of the rebellion against the corrupt practices and superstitions of the Hindu and Moslem religion of its time. It originated with the teachings of its founder Guru Nanak (1469 - 1539).

Many stories are told of Nanak's way of teaching. One relates:

During a visit to Mecca he happened to be resting with his feet toward the Kaaba, the holy place of the Moslems. When an infuriated devotee of Islam pointed out that he was committing an act of sacrilege by putting his feet toward the house of God, Nanak replied, "Turn my feet in the direction where God does not exist."

The nine Gurus that succeeded Nanak built upon the foundations he laid down. Today "The Granth," the Sikh scripture, is given the status of a Guru and there are no longer human Gurus. (Sikh comes from the Sanskrit word for disciple or student. The Gurus are enlightened teachers.)

"The persecutions of its members and the martyrdoum of the fifth Guru turned the Sikhs from a pacifist group into a warlike people. The tenth, Guru Gobind Singh, created the Khalsa, following the martyrdom of his father," Gurnam continues.

The Khalsa was a brotherhood of soldier warriors who fought cruelty, defended the weak, and stood against all shams and barriers of caste, dress, diet and status.

Members wore the five K's to distinguish themselves. 1. Kes - unshorn hair. 2. Kangha - a comb. 3. Kara - an iron bracelet, to remind them to use their hands only for good. 4. Kuchera - knickers, for briskness in the battle field. 5. Kirpan - sword, for self defense. Unlike the Hindus' garments, their clothes were stitched.

Gurnam keeps to some of the dress traditions but he doesn't wearthe knickers and he's never carried a sword.

He hopes his sons and daughter will continue in his faith.

"They may not keep the turban and hair if conditions in society don't permit it. It's hard for children," the father admits. One day his oldest son was stopped by two young boys and asked why he wore his hair long and in a turban. "You know you are in America," he was reminded. Fortunately such incidents are rare.

"It's usually not a problem in Livermore," the father asserts. "But people do think you are foreign when you wear a turban and a beard. Sometimes I'm asked when I am going home." He laughs, remembering, "The first time I was asked, I automatically answered 'around five or six o'clock!"

Sidhu has been a citizen for many years.

Although Sikhs are easily distinguished by their dress, Sahjdhari Sikhs do not maintain these symbols. Anyone who believes in and tries to practice the teachings of the Sikh Gurus including "The Granth" and who does not follow another religion is a Sikh. The Amritdhari Sikhs maintain the five dress symbols.

Today, Sikhs are known as courageous soldiers. They are also known as farmers, their homeland in the Punjab area being the granary of India.

The Lawrence Livermore Laboratory physicist was born in the Punjab and reared in a small farming village.

"The only religion there was Sikhism and I didn't think in terms of religion but in terms of a profession. I didn't realize we were a small fraction of the total number of people," he recalls.

Sidhu completed high school, farmed for a few years and went on to college. He didn't go into the army.

"Although, in my family if they thought you counted for something you joined the army," he confesses.

He spent two years in a province of southern India. "I was always a foreigner. The people were closed. I didn't make friends and I was never invited to their homes." He found a contrast when he came to this country on a fellowship.

"Here I didn't feel a stranger. Everything was wide open. Everything was new. The adjustment was easy, although I had a little trouble speaking."

He met his wife, Gail, at the University of Washington in Seattle. She was an undergraduate major in English literature, He a Ph.D. candidate in Physics (since completed). They now have three children. Apar Singh, 12, Gyan Singh, 10 and Amrita Kaur, 7. Almost every Sikh male has the name of Singh (lion added to his first name, the father explained. "This was done to remove the surname which in India often gives the exact caste to which the person belongs. For the same reason females are called Kaur, (Princess)."

Gyan Singh wears his hair long and in a turban. His son, Apar Singh has had his cut "for a lot of practical reasons," says his father. "He was involved in swimming and other activities and the only boy with long hair. If there had been others, it would have been easier."

When one of the children calls Gail away, Gurnam pays tribute to his wife.

"People in other cultures think women in this country do not have regard for traditional marriages. This isn't true. With Gail there are no cultural problems, although as people we sometimes may have individual personality differences."

Gail believes she has found mainly richness in an inter - cultural marriage.

"Many doors have opened into interesting circles of people, I might not have otherwise met. There have been interesting experiences, exotic foods."

When her two sons were small, Gail visited her in - laws in India. Gurnam was unable to accompany them. Welcomed into the family, Gail found no trouble with communications in spite of the fact she didn't speak Punjabi and her mother - in - law didn't speak English.

"I used my arms a lot," laughs the red - haired Mrs. Sidhu. "At the end of my six months stay, I could get by in the marketplace and my mother - in - law could say OK. My sisters - in - law spoke English, which helped.

"Coming back was an actual culture shock. It was very much like what the Peace Corps people experience in returning to this country."

According to Gail, women in Sikh families are free to pursue their own interests. While the women do all the housework, it's an extended family, with aunts and grandmothers to care for the children.

Her sister - in - law and her husband are both doctors. "She's got the bigger practice," Gail confides.

Mrs. Sidhu recently started her own business. She owns knitcrafts on South K Street in Livermore open six days a week. Gail holds classes two days and two nights a week.

Gurnam is a member of the Sikh Center of the San Francisco Bay Area. It was for the center he wrote the booklet "Glimpses of Sikhism."

During religious meetings appropriate portions of "The Granth" are read and on special occasions the whole is recited. Temple offerings support a free community kitchen and other community charitable causes. After each religious function there is a sharing of food, symbolizing the equalizing of all people when they eat together.

In worship, women lead the service as well as men.

"Today, government policy in India is to homogenize the country," Gurnam concludes. "Different languages and Sikhism have little future. It is easier to be a Sikh here than in India."

MAY SCHOOL EXHIBIT AT CARNEGIE
Marg Marguth point out the school's location to Jolene Brahams on an 1874 map of Livermore, part of the history center's newest exhibit.

Openhouse to collect May School history

A special invitation to former teachers and pupils of the historical May School is issued by the Livermore Heritage Guild which celebrates its new May School exhibit with an open house today at the Carnegie Building from 2 to 4 p.m.

The names of former pupils and teachers, and dates of their association with the school will be entered in a bound book for permanent record.

In addition, an information sheet will be completed for each name entered, giving parents' names, personal recollections of the school, or identification of someone who can provide information on deceased teachers or pupils.

The new May School exhibit on the second floor of the Carnegie Building, 2155 Third St., includes old and new pictures of the school building and its pupils, as well as copies of old maps outlining surrounding property.

The Livermore Art Association will demonstrate art techniques downstairs, where refreshments will be served.

Inflation symposium

Valley women are invited to hear Bill Manus, guest speaker in the Livermore Y-Wives inflation symposium, Tuesday, March 4 at the Livermore Recreation Center.

Manus, vice president and manager of Livermore's Bank of America will speak on "Economy Out of Balance" at the meeting from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The second part of the inflation symposium is a group discussion scheduled for the March 11 Y-Wives meeting, also at the recreation center, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Playschool facilities are available for children aged two-months through six years for all Y-Wives meetings. Reservations for child care must be made with Sue Graham at 455-1737 before 2 p.m. Monday prior to the meeting. For information contact Pat Lundberg at 447-7155.

Juniors' tennis tourney

A Shamrock Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Pleasanton Junior Women's Club, swings Sunday, March 9 at Muirwood Park tennis courts.

Play, consisting of women's doubles and men's doubles in round-robin style, begins at 8 a.m. The tournament is not a handicap tournament. Players are placed in flights according to ability and experience.

Entry fee is $3 per person. Deadline for sign-ups is Wednesday, March 5. To enter call 846-6749 or 462-5723.

Proceeds benefit the annual Shamrock against Dystrophy camPaign sponsored by the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Be FOR some one when you vote on Tuesday

The "negative approach" used by some political activists within our valley reached an all - time low in the final days of that 15th Assembly District campaign which mercifully draws to a close on Tuesday. Unable to accept the mandate of the voters who rejected Bill Vandenburgh — the darling of the liberals — these dissidents have lashed out at the remaining "conservative Democrat" on that ticket, and now reason that "even a vote for the Republican candidate is better than a vote for Floyd Mori."

Their determination to use Guy Puccio in the plan to scuttle Mr. Mori got so repugnant that even Mr. Puccio, to his credit, was compelled to reject certain parts of that campaign literature. Puccio would have served his constituency and his cause much better had he flatly rejected the whole crowd , and relied instead on his claim to being "the best man for the job."

You will hear in these final days of the campaign about "simply giving the Democrats a choice" and "allowing Mr. Mori plenty of time to reply to these questions." But of course that is an old political ploy which fools no one. The preparation and distribution of two mailers, each in excess of 13,000 pieces, within the final week of the campaign leaves no opportunity whatsoever for similar blanket - coverage response. Nor does it do much good to respond to such charges as those offered by the Livermore - based "Democrats for Good Government" who suggest that the February ballot was something less than "honest, straightforward government" and that Mori's clear triumph in that field of 15 was somehow a "fluke."

What is most disturbing in all this literature is the emphasis on Mr. Mori's shortcomings, while ignorning any attempt to cite Mr. Puccio's virtues. (The first "Good Government" mailer did not once mention Puccio's name, even though this newspaper was later to determine that the Puccio camp paid out some $1300 for distribution of that piece.)

Floyd Mori has been rejected by the liberals "because he is too conservative on the key issues." He is unacceptable to the political action wing of the AFL - CIO "because he doesn't give us the right answers." He failed to win the Oakland Tribune's endorsement because he is not conservative enough. As a career teacher, he is not sufficently in the academic union's pocket to gain their active support. As the , best known political force in the valley, he has failed to woo the big dollars of the builders and land developers, even as he has not curried favor with the more extreme elements of the environmental and no - growth camps.

It would appear, therefore, that Floyd Mori is no one's captive. He has strong beliefs, and he is not afraid to state them. To recall one critic's complaint, "Mori is not very political." And that is why so many people who have grown tired of "the old political standard" are going to vote for Floyd Mori on Tuesday. The Times supports him simply because he is the best qualified, the most mature and the strongest candidate in the field.

The hoopla over the 15th Assembly race should not overshadow another, perhaps even more important challenge that confronts the valley electorate on Tuesday. Public education faces a crisis of dollars and "community control" as perhaps never before in the local knowledge of that system. The people who serve on our school boards can have tremendous input in upcoming months and years on the role of education. The views are many and divergent; the stakes are high.

This newspaper reasons that any argument is worth hearing, providing there is assurance of a balancing position from the other side. This has been our thrust in making recommendations to you for the various school board posts. We invite you to study those endorsements as they appear elsewhere on this page.

Above all, the candidates must know we care. The activists must understand that we are ever alert. The teacher must be aware of our presence, with or without collective bargaining. The student must appreciate the parental presence, with or without legalized smoking areas, dress codes or drug education.

If you care, you will vote.

Nuclear Initiative is a hard choice

The "Nuclear Initiative" presents Californians with one of the more difficult decisions most of us will be asked to make in our lifetime. Regretably, it is a decision we approach armed not with any thorough knowledge of the subject, but rather on the emotional appeal of those among us who see nothing but evil in all things nuclear.

Those who oppose the development of nuclear power as a source of domestic energy would place that question on the June ballot. If a majority of Californians agree with that proposal, then this one energy source will at first be curtailed, then diminished, and eventually removed altogether from our inventory of potential energy sources.

There are perhaps only a few thousand people in this country who understand the full potential of nuclear power, and even less who comprehend the limits to which science might safely go in pursuit of that resource. Included in that list might be the 32 distinguished American scientists who some weeks ago affixed their signatures to a letter appealing for public understanding of the nuclear question because "on any scale the benefits of a clean, inexpensive and inexhaustible domestic fuel far outweight the possible risks." President Ford shares that view, and he has placed this nation on a course that would multiply by several fold our production of peacetime nuclear power. It is, says the president, a key factor in America's drive toward "energy independence by 1985."

The opposing view is that we might achieve this "independence"at the cost of placing ourselves and the world in the grip of a new, more terrible fight for survival a generation or two down the road. This argument is based not on any history of "nuclear disasters" — since there has in fact been none in peacetime — but rather on the calculated guess by people such as Ralph Nader who see the evidence of one small reactor leak today as the forerunner of a holocaust certain to come tomorrow.

One fact is clear. The expansion of nuclear power sources to thus produce 14 percent of this nation's total energy need is almost exactly the amount we now gain from imported oil. Most knowledgeable people agree that there is no chance in this century of replacing imported oil with energy to be derived from geothermal and solar sources. Neither do domestic oil, coal and shale offer any dramatic answer in our quest for new energy production or "independence."

If we would free ourselves from the Arabian chains, with all of their implications as to world inflation and even war, then we must either find a new source to replace that imported oil, or we must be prepared to cut back this nation's economy and our own style of living to a standard not known since before World War II.

That is the real choice which The Nuciear Initiative demands we make. At least it is placing the question in terms most of us can understand, without having to wait for some 21st century Armageddon to provide the final answer.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Ambiguity is defined in Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary as the state or quality of being ambiguous and the latter as doubtful and uncertain especialy from obscurity or indistinctness. The word is also defined as capable of being understood in two or more possible senses and added to that is the notation, "see obscure",

Those definitions in general sum up my feelings about the lads and lassies in this valley who are currently mounting a pretty thoroughly discredited attack on Floyd Mori and attempting to widen a presently non-existant rift in the Democratic party.

Further along in the same dictionary the word duplicity is described as "doubleness of speech or thought" and "deception by pretending to feel and act one way while acting another, the quality of being double or twofold."

This word too we find to be immediately applicable to the detractors of Floyd Mori, the Democratic candicate for the 15th district assembly seat.

Folks should think about that when they vote. Just how responsible will a man or woman be who has used his mailing permit to be used for the purpose of promoting scurrilous rumors published under the name of the opposing party.

They should too examine the arguments of the folks who admit to membership in the splinter organization, Democrats for Good Government, when they go to the polls.

The wholly spurious claim by spokesmen of this group, who are about as representative of the Democratic Party as I am of Jehovah's Witnesses, that they have approached the campaign without bigotry where Mori is concerned would be laughable if it did not their ruthless approach to politics.

(Ruthless, by the way, is defined as merciless, cruel, or savage.)

We are told, almost in one breath, that if a man's religious beliefs are contrary to the social philosophies of his oplitical beliefs are no ponents, then he is fair game for an attack on those believes.

Floyd Mori, for instance, has been asked whether or not he agrees with his churches view on the Equal Rights Amendment and further critized for his views on abortion.

I suggest that someone ask Floyd Guy Puccio whether or not he agrees with HIS churches view on abortions and the equal rights amendment.

What is fair for the goose is fair for the gander, an expression which should be popular in the women's lib movement these days.

In the same breath with which we are told a man should be willing to accept religious, racial and ethnic slurs, we are also informed that "It's of significance that though Mori is a minority person, he has hardly distinguished himself as an advocate of minority rights. Indeed, a major factor in the Democratic revolt against him stems directly from his apathy and doubletalking on that matter."

The ambiguity of the argument which claims a man should be able to rise above racial slurs just barely tops the idiocy of that last statement, which claims he should be active in eliminating such slurs and other ethnic outrages.

The Morman issue, Floyd Mori's stand on racial issues or his views on the Equal Rights Amendment are in no way important by the silent - until this weekend - group of his opponents who are behind the so called "Democratic revolt."

They are opposed to Floyd Mori because he wanted Interstate 580 widened. Because, in other words, he wanted to protect the lives of the people who use that treacherous death trap which connects the valley with the bay plain via Dublin Canyon.

Floyd Mori, in advocating that the stretch of highway be widened, was thinking of nothing more than the health and welfare of his constituents, of protecting the lives of his neighbors, friends and their children.

Of protecting also, whether you believe it or not, your neighbors, you and your children. There is not one person in the valley who does not, at one time or another, use that blighted death trap with, of course, one exception.

I am sure Don Miller, one of Mori's silent foes, just strolls along the top of Alameda Creek when he heads for Hayward, Fremont or Oakland.

For his advocacy of construction of a highway which will protect the health and welfare of everyone in this valley, Mori has been the victim of a scurrilous attack this past, one which has been delivered by Uncle Sugar's letter carriers."

I,for one, do not think those scurrilous messages which purport to represent the views of a sizeable portion of rebellious Democrats, will hurt Mori.

Frankly, they should help him.

Mori's campaign has been aboveboard, clean and honest. He may not have pleased everybody, but he has been decent and has avoided duplicity, ambiguity or ruthlessness.

Those who do not want 580 widened don't care much of a damn whether those of you who use the road are killed on the present death trap or not.

Mori, though he knew he would make enemies, had the guts to fight them. How does a man like that stack up with one who would hide behind a ghostly "Democrats for Good Government" group which used his Republican finance permit to circulate scurrilous gossip?

Think about that when you vote. The man elected will be YOUR representative!.

The week in retrospect

Invisible majority

The county elections division reports 15,444 registered voters in the Amador Valley Joint High School District , 8,236 in Pleasanton Elementary and 6,867 in Murray Elementary School District.

But unless many more persons are aroused or somehow made aware, the issues and races on Tuesday's ballot will be decided by an incredibly low number of the total population.

The only district that doesn't have a contest per se is Sunol, where Hank Schneider is running unopposed. Two precincts with 341 voters are involved in that picturesque little community . . . and it would be appropriate if most or all took a few minutes to give Schneider a vote of confidence.

There is not a day that passes without this writer overhearing or becoming involved in a discussion concerning the schools . . . yet when a candidates night, school board meeting or some similar activity is announced, the public stays away in droves.

Where are the taxpayers who gripe about one thing or another when school candidates' nights and elections are held?

Is it possible to get at least half of those 15,444 Amador district voters out this Tuesday? Will the same be possible for Murray and Pleasanton?

To insure a good turnout, this writer proposes that all parent-teacher groups in the districts consider a mini-phone campaign today and Monday. Candidates and other civic-minded groups should also make an attempt.

Additionally, we ask that those civic groups having mini-buses, vans or other such vehicles at their disposal to offer rides to the polls for senior citizens and all others needing same.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Tuesday and no early counts are expected out of the county until 10 that night.

Perhaps the most important school board election in the valley is in the Murray district where six aspirants seek three seats.

Murray has been embroiled in some degree of turmoil and cries out for strong and positive leadership.

Measure D on the ballot will aid the financially hard-pressed Murray district. It deserves the support of every single person in the district. If the measure fails, the district will have some very stark and disturbing decisions to make.

Sunol will follow Murray district into the tax revenue increase arena on May 27. While the wording of the measures will be different, the reason for both is the same . . . the districts desparately need monies to cover the escalating costs of salaries and supplies, plus the negative effects of SB90.

The Murray balloting makes Pleasanton and Amador seem like a relatively-simple exercise. But that is not the case.

The "pinch" is being felt here, too, and it will get worst before it gets better. A revenue increase measure a couple years down the road is not out of the question.

Which brings us back to YOU!

We can guarantee effective leadership by going to the polls Tuesday and voting for the persons we believe will exercise the best judgement and do the most complete job.

Letters to the editor

Does it exist?

Editor, The Times:

I am concerned about the unauthorized use of my name on a letter sent to a number of people by the "Democrats for Good Government." My clear impression from my one conversation with a representative of "Democrats for Good Government" was that my name was to only appear in a list of people in an endorsement campaign ad. I deplore those aspects of this letter that are inflamnatory or untrue.

That mailing

Editor, The Times:

This letter concerns a recent mailing in the Puccio vs. Mori campaign authored by R. Garrett under the letterhead of Democrats for Better Government. This mailing included names of a "committee" (of which our names were included) along the outside border. However, the role of this "committee" was left ambituous.

This "committee" does not exist as far as we know. This "committee" did not draft such a mailing nor did it react to such a draft before being mailed.

Some people are against Mr. Mori. They have their reasons. However, we are FOR Mr. Puccio as district from being AGAINST Mr. Mori. Mr. Puccio better represents our concerns about the impact of uncontrolled growth in the Livermore valley especially as this concerns air pollution and the quality of education - we're being asked to build new schools when they're boarding up schools in the East Bay Area.

We lent our names to such an endorsement. It is personally distressing that in the last minutes of a campaign we were not given a chance to react to this mailing before it was sent out. We would not have signed such a letter.

For Sunday, March 2, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It will be difficult to help sort out another's problems if this person isn't completely frank about all ramifications.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This will be a tricky day for you in handling matters involving partners or close associates. Collective goals are vague.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't start projects unless you're sure they can be finished. Double-check to be sure you have all the materials required.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There will be some complications surrounding your social activities today. Don't be caught in the undercurrents.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today, headaches are likely to emanate from domestic sources. Keep a watchful eye on the kids or others in your charge.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The spirit will be willing but the flesh weak when transforming your plans into direct physical action today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There are opportunities about you presently, but it isn't likely you'll use the correct procedures to capitalize on them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll settle for second best regarding something you want to buy. You're too impatient to wait for your first choice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Yesterday your hunches could be depended upon, but not today. If making important moves, deal only in cold, hard facts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll get a little miffed with a friend over something material. It's trivial, but the way it's handled will annoy you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You won't achieve as much as you're capable of today. You'll have too many irons in the fire. Settle on priorities.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be tempted to talk about your plans to those who aren't in a position to help. Their suggestions could confuse you.

Advantages and opportunities will come to you this year through social contacts with reliable, influential individuals. Doors will be opened for you.

Jim: "How about a week's articles on percentage and safety plays?"

Oswald: "They aren't exactly the same thing. For instance, here is a standard safety play. South finds himself in six notrump after a lightly irregular notrump opening. He might have reached six clubs, if he had opened one club or North might have played six notrump. It really doesn't matter. The principle involved is the same."

Jim: "South wants to lose just one club trick and he wants to give himself the best chance to do just that. He sees that he can't make the slam if West holds king-jack plus one or two small clubs. He wants to find a way to handle any other club combination."

Oswald: "The safety play here is to lay down his ace of clubs. This time he drops the king and has no trouble finessing against the jack and making all the tricks. If an honor failed to drop he would go over to dummy and lead the nine of clubs. This is a safety play against a guarded king-jack holding in the East hand."

Jim: "Had South bid seven he would have tried the best play for all the tricks which is a first round finesse of the queen. It would have failed miserably this time, but it still would have been the best play."

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON COUNTY OF ALAMEDA STATE OF CALIFORNIA NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION SANTA RITA ROAD IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

February 28, 1975

In accordance with the provisions set forth in Resolution No. 75-22 (Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), adopted by the City Council of the City of Pleasanton on January 27, 1975, the Santa Rita Road Improvement Project has been determined to require a negative declaration.

The project in question consists of (1) widening by 22 feet the westerly side of Santa Rita Road from Black Avenue south to existing improvements at Amador Valley Joint Union High School to accommodate two southbound lanes plus a merge lane for traffic entering Santa Rita Road in a southerly direction from Black Avenue, (2) constructing a standard sidewalk along the westerly side of the Santa Rita Road improvement and west along the southerly side of Black Avenue, (3) improving the drainage along the westerly edge of Santa Rita Road, and (4) installing two fire hydrants.

It is the opinion of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in Resolution No. 75-22 which indicate that the environment may be harmed. It is recognized that the project anticipates the building of a new Post Office on the site adjacent the improvement and that it facilitates access to this facility as well as traffic flow into the central business district. The increased traffic flow would be minor, however, and would not generate significant degradation due to noise or air pollution. The enlarged street and the development it would foster are consistent with the Pleasanton General Plan.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, CA 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date, this decision will become effective.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON COUNTY OF ALAMEDA STATE OF CALIFORNIA NOTICE OF INTENT TO FILE A NEGATIVE DECLARATION ST. MARYS STREET IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

February 28, 1975

In accordance with the provisions set forth in Resolution No. 75-22 (Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures), adopted by the City Council of the City of Pleasanton on January 27, 1975, the St. Marys Street Improvement Project has been determined to require a negative declaration.

The project in question consists of the following: (1) reconstruction of the Western Pacific Railroad overcrossing with a vertical curve for a smoother transition over the tracks; (2) installation of new curbs, gutters, and sidewalks over the tracks; (3) relocation of signals and installation of cross arms, and (4) installation of a drainage system to divert water run-off from St. Marys and St. John Streets north to Arroyo del Valle.

It is the opinion of the Director of Housing and Community Development that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in Resolution No. 75-22 which indicate that the environment may be harmed. No increase in traffic is anticipated. Redirecting the St. Marys Street run-off to Arroyo del Valle from its current path south along the Western Pacific Railroad and into the Arroyo de la Laguna would not increase the amount of city-related pollutants ultimately reaching the Niles Cone recharge area.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Housing and Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, CA 94566, telephone, 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date, this decision will become effective.
